Fernando Zobel, Filipino-Spanish modernist, is known for the dynamism of his art. His abstractions collectively form a record of his search for artistic change, and for the essential elements of his vision. Along the way, he helped spark in other painters, art patrons, and scholars an interest in the Philippine culture never felt during the previous two colonial eras. His love of Philippine iconography, painting, and crafts led to the founding of the first Ayala Museum. This annual report features a set of motifs from Zobel's art. Its design pays tribute to the pioneering spirit and the transformative power of the imagination that Zobel lived out to the fullest.
